

Carlo Monaco

- Graduated in 1992 with a degree in dentistry from the University of Bologna, Italy, where he was subsequently adjunct professor from 1997 to 2000.
- Visiting researcher at the Department of Cariology, directed by Prof Ivo Krejci, at the University of Geneva between the years 2000 and 2004.
- Obtained a master's degree in science (2003) and a PhD in dental materials (2005) at the University of Siena with Prof M. Ferrari.
- Researcher at the University of Bologna since 2006.
- Up to 2020, taught undergraduate courses on fixed prostheses on natural teeth and implants and prosthodontics at the University of Bologna.
- Italian Academy of Prosthetic Dentistry (AIOP) award winner for best research in the field of prosthodontics in the years 2005, 2008, and 2009.
- Obtained a PhD in material science in 2013 from the Faculty of Engineering, University of Bologna.
- Associate professor at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia, teaching the courses of implant prosthodontics and removable prosthodontics in the school of dentistry.
- Dean of the master's degree program in prosthodontics and implant prosthetics with advanced technologies, University of Bologna.
- Since 2004 collaborating with Prof G. Zucchelli in the development of clinical and research protocols related to implant-supported restorations, soft tissue management, and the interrelationship between prosthodontics and periodontics in the natural dentition.
- Active member of the AIOP and the Italian Academy of Osseointegration (IAO).
- Fellow of the International Team for Implantology since 2018.